

Successful Employer Engagement by Phone

Virtual 1 day

Communicating by phone has become an important and unavoidable part of working in the Welfare to Work, Social Care and Work Based Learning Industry.

This course teaches delegates the core techniques and skills needed to effectively engage employers by phone.

This training includes how to structure first calls to employers.

Recommended For:

Employability, Skills, Social Care, Work Based Learning staff members both new and experienced working on an employability or skills initiative.

Any individual who calls employers to identify job and training opportunities.

Any individual who has had no formal training in making first calls to employers and organisations.

Objective:

Delegates will learn and apply several robust techniques and strategies to successfully engage key decision makers by phone. The overall outcome is to convert more employer conversations into job and/or training outcomes.
